Conservation Authority

The Lower Thames Valley Conservation Authority

The Lower Thames Valley Conservation Authority (LTVCA) is one of 36 Conservation Authorities in the Province of Ontario. Our area of jurisdiction, the lower watershed of the Thames River, covers 3,275 square km (1,264 square mi) in southwestern Ontario and is home to 106,971 people.

The LTVCA was established in 1961 and serves its 10 municipalities with a variety of environmental functions. We have been working with residents of this watershed and region for over 40 years. Residents living in the watersheds of Lakes Erie and St. Clair and the lower Thames River are served by the LTVCA. As each municipality's environmental concerns are unique, the Conservation Authority has tailored its programs accordingly to meet local needs.
